Set within the landscaped grounds of Highlands Heath in Putney, this well-maintained 1930s two bedroom ground-floor apartment spans 849sq ft, offering a blend of period character and modern updates.

Immaculately presented, the apartment features high ceilings and very generous rooms, with a thoughtful layout that creates a sense of flow throughout. The living space features a fireplace with a wood burning stove, adding warmth and character, whilst a striking bay window frames views of the communal grounds. The kitchen, recently replaced by the current owner, combines shaker-style cabinetry, brushed brass fittings, and integrated appliances, blending timeless appeal with modern functionality. Both bedrooms are excellent sizes, with the principal bedroom offering a full wall of fitted wardrobes and enjoys garden views.

The communal grounds are meticulously maintained, offering lush lawns, mature trees and manicured hedges surrounding the building that creates a serene and private environment. Residents benefit from a private tennis court, a rare and luxurious amenity, enhancing the sense of exclusive living in this peaceful enclave of Putney. The overall style is elegant, timeless, and refined, making it an ideal residence for those seeking classic London living with a modern twist.

Highlands Heath is perfectly positioned for easy access to the open spaces of Wimbledon Common and Richmond Park, whilst the A3 and local bus routes provide swift connections into and out of London. A porter is on
